REPORT.

IN presenting a brief sketch of the work of the Home for 1895, we are glad to report a satisfactory year.

Although the number of children admitted does not equal that of the previous year, yet for this very reason we have been enabled, in cases where our aid has been greatly needed, to extend the time usually allotted for assistance.

A few instances of such assistance rendered during the year we think will interest our friends.

A little child less than two years of age, who had been deserted by her mother owing to a disagreement with the father, was brought to us by a missionary and remained until the parents became reconciled.

In January we received two little sisters, whose parents through drink had become incapable of providing for them. The mother was apparently a weak-minded woman, and although brought up in a home of refinement, became, through the influence of her husband, addicted like him to drink, and died while her children were with us. The children remained in our Home several months, until they could be placed in a permanent institution.

One of our boys (now sixteen years old), who was adopted from the Home in his infancy, this year returned to us asking to be taken back, as he objected to farm life. The circumstances were such that we felt justified in letting him remain, and he is now learning a trade for which he seems better adapted.

One of our most interesting cases is that of a boy who when small became a deaf mute, and although he was an attractive child, this defect proved an obstacle to our procuring a home for him. We have, therefore, clothed and cared for him since he came to us, twelve years ago. He is being educated at the Clarke Institution, and each year when he returns to us during his vacation we see a marked improvement, as he is gradually but surely acquiring the art of speech.

We give a few extracts from letters received during the year, from those who have had their homes brightened by little ones taken from the Home : —

“ Little Gladys is well, and fills a place in our home that would be indeed desolate but for her.”

“ Our baby grows each day more into our affections ; we hardly think that we could keep house without her now. We find her of a yielding disposition, needing thoughtful and tender treatment, repaying us with most loving baby ways.”

“ I write to ask if you have a baby boy that in your judgment would be a suitable child for us to take to bring up with our little girl. We think her a smart, bright child, but do not think it wise to bring her up alone. Of course we want the boy to be bright and smart like her.”

“ We think we are very fortunate in finding such a nice baby, and hope she will be as fortunate in her home. I realize that food and clothing are but a small part in care of a child, and shall try and do my best to make her a pure, lovable woman."

Except in the cases of two infants who died, each at the age of about one year, and a few mild cases of diphtheria, the health of the children has been generally good during the year. Our sincere thanks are due to Dr. E. L. Twombley, for his always kind and ready response in sickness, and to Dr. G. A. Webster, for relieving little sufferers from ear trouble. We are also indebted to Rev. D. W. Woldron for a picnic at Franklin Park and for remembrances at Easter; to the Fresh Air Fund, from which, through Mayor Curtis, we received fifteen hundred car tickets giving our children a great many outings during July and August; and to the Young Men's Christian Union, for carriage rides, which are very much enjoyed by our nursery children.

As the invested funds as yet suffice to yield an income of only about one half the expenses of the Home, we must continue to rely largely upon the generosity of our subscribers and other contributors and friends, to whom, one and all, we again, in behalf of the children, tender grateful thanks.

As no inconsiderable sum is spent annually for clothing, much can be saved for us by contributions of articles for children's wear, which will always, as heretofore, be gladly received.
